

DO YOU GET UP
WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BARRELS OF MAIL.

Keg Used as Postoffice on a Barren Island.

The Postoffice Department is in receipt of a query from a man in Ohio who asks the officials there to tell him where a barrel is used for a postoffice. It is presumed that the man, who says he is preparing for an examination, was asked the curious question by some school of correspondence.

The Division of Correspondence in the Postoffice Department has informed him that a barrel is used as a postoffice on a barren island in the Straits of Magellan, on the southern coast of South America. It is nailed to a tree and ships passing the treacherous coast drop their mail in and look for it to be picked up by the next vessel passing that way and bound in the direction of the letter's address. It has formed a very convenient way for mariners to correspond with their friends, and is probably the only legitimate postoffice in the World without a Postmaster. It is international in character, and all flags carry the mail from it free of charge.

THE DANCE

That Led to Death, Among Brilliant Scenes.

Among the many brilliant scenes that the production of "The Holy City" presents, none is more sensationally superb than the one in which Saloma, the beautiful daughter of Herodias, dances before King Herod and his Court. In diaphanous drapery kaleidoscope as butterflies' wings in rainbow rays, its folds rising and falling above and around her nimble feet like clouds caressed by Summer winds, bending and swaying in harmonious motion to the enticing music heard, the royal dancer floats like a bubble on the palace terraces, bewitching the intoxicating King, who after first offering half his kingdom, finally yields to intrigue and grants the head of John the Baptist as a reward for sensuous delight. Exquisite as are the surroundings of this situation, its dramatic intensity is never lost; the conspiracy and its fatal ending, hidden for a moment by the alluring beauty of the scene, burst upon the senses of tragic acting seldom witnessed on any stage. "The Holy City" is a great drama, and will be presented at Holland's Opera House, Tuesday night, March 14.

HARVE HIGHT'S
BUSINESS TRIP TO NEW YORK.

Deposited his Money With the Hotel Clerk and Saved It.

"NO GOL DURNED FOOL"

House Detective Prepared
Him for the Visit of Green
Goods Artists.

The New York World of March 3 contained the following account of the trip of two citizens of this county to New York, in quest of "green goods":

"Harvey W. Hight, general storekeeper near Hopkinsville, Ky., and his strapping son Oscar, twenty-two years old, came to town yesterday and registered at the Astor House, dressed in their best store clothes, broad-brimmed hats and long hair. The father clung to an old black satchel which contained one bottle of moonshine whiskey, one lump of boiled beef and two loaves of bread, one corner of which had been eaten off.

"Reckon I'll skin this roll right here," said the elder Hight as he registered, and he handed $565 to the clerk. Then father and son went up the stairs, avoiding the elevator after one cautious look at the ropes, to their room.

Detective Sanderson, the house sleuth, followed them, heard them drive home the bolt and begin to eat the contents of the satchel. He knocked at the door.

"Traveling north!" came a sepulchral whisper from the elder Hight. "I don't belong to that lodge," Sanderson whispered back. "I am just making a social call."

There was a long parley. Then the satchel clicked and Sanderson was admitted. He asked many questions, but the Hights maintained discreet silence.

"Up here buying green goods, aren't you?" asked Sanderson at length.

More silence, and Sanderson left. Sanderson returned with Detectives Fitzsimmons and Higgins to learn that a man had called on the Hights and disappeared. The detectives went to the room, and by praising moonshine won from the elder the whispered confession that he had received an alluring circular, had scraped together $565, and taken the first train for New York. He had been told to go to the Astor House, admit no one to the room without a countersign, and in time they would receive $1,500 in the coin of the realm for their cash.

"I ain't no gol durned fool. I know a bargain when I see one," said the father, "and if that ain't good money I'd like to know."

He produced a dollar bill the green goods men had sent as a sample.

The detectives took the trio to Commissioner Shields, who explained at length the nature of the trade in green goods, whereupon the Hights, from Hopkinsville Ky., consented to be put aboard a fast train in Jersey City, with their roll intact and a replenished satchel.

They Have Returned.

Harvey W. Hight, a son of the late Joseph Hight, is a country merchant at Lobelia, six miles east of Crofton. He left Hopkinsville Monday night Feb. 27, telling his wife and others that he was going to Nashville to buy goods. The tickets for himself and son cost about $100. A trip to Gotham is all he has to show for an expenditure of perhaps $125. He returned to White Plains Saturday, March 4, and went to his home six or eight miles from that point.

A neighbor of Hight's, some time last winter, received a "green goods" circular containing a dollar bill. This was turned over to Hight who showed it to the cashiers of the Crofton bank and one of the banks here and it was pronounced good money. Hight kept his own counsel, and decided to go to New York and get the bargain offered. The account from the World given above tells the result and how it happened that Harve got back home with his roll. The smartest thing he did was to leave his money with the clerk.

Kentucky Belle Alleges Breach of Promise.

Sioux City, Iowa, March 2.—The Federal Court for the Southern Iowa District has taken jurisdiction of a curious interstate case in which Scynthia Ferguson, a Blue Grass belle, demands $25,000 from W. H. Kennedy, of Mills county, Iowa, for alleged breach of promise to wed. It is alleged that their courtship was by mail and that Kennedy insisted on several postponements, finally refusing entirely to keep his engagement. He is wealthy, while the plaintiff comes of an aristocratic family. The case will be tried in April.

Suffered Intensely with Backache.

Dr. M. M. Fenner, Fredonia, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—For nearly a year I suffered intensely with backache and could hardly bear to stand on my feet. I also felt restless when sitting down. Upon the advice of a friend I tried Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Backache Cure. Two bottles cured me entirely and I can't say too much for this remedy. I also find it pleasant to take.

WHAT CUTICURA
DOES FOR WOMEN

Too much stress cannot be placed on the great value of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills in the antiseptic cleansing of the mucous surfaces, and of the blood and circulating fluids, thus affording pure, sweet, and economical local and constitutional treatment for weakening ulcerations, inflammations, itches, irritations, relaxations, displacements, pains, and irregularities peculiar to females. Hence the Cuticura remedies have a wonderful influence in restoring health, strength, and beauty to weary women, who have been prematurely aged and invalidated by these distressing ailments, as well as such sympathetic afflictions as anemia, chlorosis, hysteria, and nervousness.

Women from the very first have fully appreciated the purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy which have made Cuticura the standard humour remedy of the civilized world.

TORTURING HUMOR

Cured by Cuticura.

"I suffered five years with a terrible itching eczema, my body and face being covered with sores. Never in my life did I experience such awful suffering, and I longed for death, which I felt was near. I had tried doctors and medicines without success, but my mother insisted that I try Cuticura. I felt better after the first application of Cuticura Ointment, and was soon entirely well. Mrs. A. Etson, Bellevue, Mich.
